The Washington County Animal Control Department will not be providing traps for Non-Aggressive animals beginning May 8, 2024, and continuing through the month of August due to extreme heat. The high temperatures can cause stress to trapped animals which can be fatal.

Residents are reminded feeding feral cats can be very dangerous and often results in an infestation which increases the likelihood of an injury or bite to humans. Feral cats are very elusive, difficult to catch, and can carry diseases including rabies. Feral cats have a higher probability of being euthanized in a shelter environment for the safety of the shelter staff and other animals.
